IN AISLE SHOPPING - PET PERSPECTIVE

These photos really focus on the pet's shopping experience - Meeting new pup pals and sniffing out all their favorite furry finds.

Note: Always have pets on leashes. Pet parent can be in background if needed holding the leash, keeping the pet at the forefront.

Attire can range from business casual to more relaxed stylized looks. Ideally, team members will dress in brand colors, or complimentary neutrals. The use of dark clothing should be avoided as much as possible. The attire level should be representative of the level of the employee within the firm. Examples for attire can be seen here and throughout the presentation. Team should be well put together, looking their best.

THIS IS WHO WE ARE.

Leveraging a 70-year legacy of experience, Chastain-Skillman leads the industry in civil engineering, water and wastewater engineering, and land surveying.

While intentionally preserving the culture of a tight-knit, generationally-owned business, Chastain-Skillman makes significant investments in the talent and resources necessary to deliver the highest quality of workmanship.

The firm is propelled by an innate drive to innovate, but remains humbly rooted in a history that has always prioritized precision and accuracy. This history, coupled with a collaborative culture and the unwavering support of senior leadership, empowers teams with the creative freedom to engage in complex problem-solving.

At Chastain-Skillman, we treasure our role in creating thriving communities, always respecting the impact our work has on their foundations and their futures.

THESE ARE THE ATTRIBUTES WE LOOK FOR IN A PROJECT MANAGER

From The President.

Working at a firm that has shaped a large part of Florida over the past 70 years carries both great honor and great responsibility. How do we make a lasting difference in the lives of not only our co-workers, but also their families? How do we create a lasting legacy in the communities we serve?

Over the past five years, we've shifted our response to those questions. We've invested deeply in our people, our culture, our equipment, and our processes. We've intentionally empowered our teams to explore multiple angles, to redefine challenges, and to take creative action to achieve the best outcome possible. Simply put, we've committed to investing in innovation.

The improvement we've seen is dramatic – but it is just the beginning.

Now, we must find individuals who are not only smart, but also adaptable, collaborative, and passionate to carry forth our legacy. Those yearning to maximize their potential as a professional, willing to engage in creative problem solving, and those with an innate drive to innovate.

So here we are. You've taken a step to learn a little about our company, and I'm hopeful we get the chance to learn a little bit about you.

Even if we don't meet, make sure to make a lasting impact for your clients and community. That's what legacy is all about.

Jay Chastain
president

WE'RE NOT JUST SAYING IT, OUR EMPLOYEES ARE, TOO.

I have enjoyed working at Chastain-Skillman because it has a small business feel with the resources of a larger company. Working here has not only allowed me to gain professional experience with new technologies such as drones and 3D static scanning, but it has also empowered me with knowledge to run a successful team.

PROJECT MANAGER POSITION.

interpersonal skills

We all work together to achieve a common goal. You will work with engineers who design various types of systems and with contractors and operators who put those designs into practice. Working well within a team is important to your success.

creative imagination

Some projects require designing systems in process. You should be able to foresee how the proposed designs will interact with other components of the larger system, including the workers, equipment, and the environment.

skills

You may have to solve several issues at once when designing facilities and processes, being able to identify and anticipate problems in order to prevent losses for the company, safeguard health of both workers and the general public, and mitigate environmental damage helps make the difference.

Qualifications

- Must have minimum 5 – 10 years of experience in consulting firm performing civil site design, stormwater design, and permitting
- Bachelor's degree in Civil Engineering (preferred)
- Must have a Florida PE or ability to obtain within 6 months of employment
- Must have demonstrated experience in four or more of the following areas:
  - Municipal Code Review
  - Site Planning and Design
  - Site Grading and Sanitary Sewer Design and Modeling (SUDAS preferred)
  - Roadway Design
  - Project Settlements (sinking, land use, and permitting)
- Demonstrating experience with two or more of the following:
  - Water Management Districts
  - State Department of Transportation
  - County and City
  - Departments of Health
  - State and Environmental Agencies
- Highly preferred to have construction support and O&M (please experience including):
  - Quantity Takeoff and Possible Construction Cost
  - Construction Specifications

90% BEN

Benefits

- Vacation and holiday pay
- Comprehensive medical, vision, and dental options
- Ability to participate in our 401k
- Life insurance including employee-owned $50,000 of AD&D
- Short-term & long-term disability
- Opportunities for overtime

compensation

The Project Manager position provides a competitive range of compensation, to include base salary, bonuses based on company and individual performance, and a generous benefits package.

Timing & Interviews

Initial interview will be with Joy Chastain. An additional interview will include Directors and Shareholders.

From The President.

Working at a firm that has shaped a large part of Florida over the past 70 years comes with great honor and great responsibility. How do we make a lasting difference in the lives of not only our co-workers, but also their families? How do we create a lasting legacy in the communities we serve?

Over the past five years, we've shifted our response to those questions. We've invested deeply in our people, our culture, our equipment, and our processes. We've intentionally empowered our teams to explore multiple angles, to redefine challenges, and to take creative action to achieve the best outcome possible. Simply put, we've committed to investing in innovation.

The improvement we've seen is dramatic – but it's just the beginning.

Now, we must find individuals who are not only smart, but also adaptable, collaborative, and passionate to carry forth our legacy. Those yearning to maximize their potential as a professional, willing to engage in creative problem solving, and those with an innate drive to innovate.

So here we are. You've taken a step to learn a little about our company, and I'm hopeful we get the chance to learn a little bit about you.

Even if we don't meet, make sure to make a lasting impact for your clients and community. That's what legacy is all about.

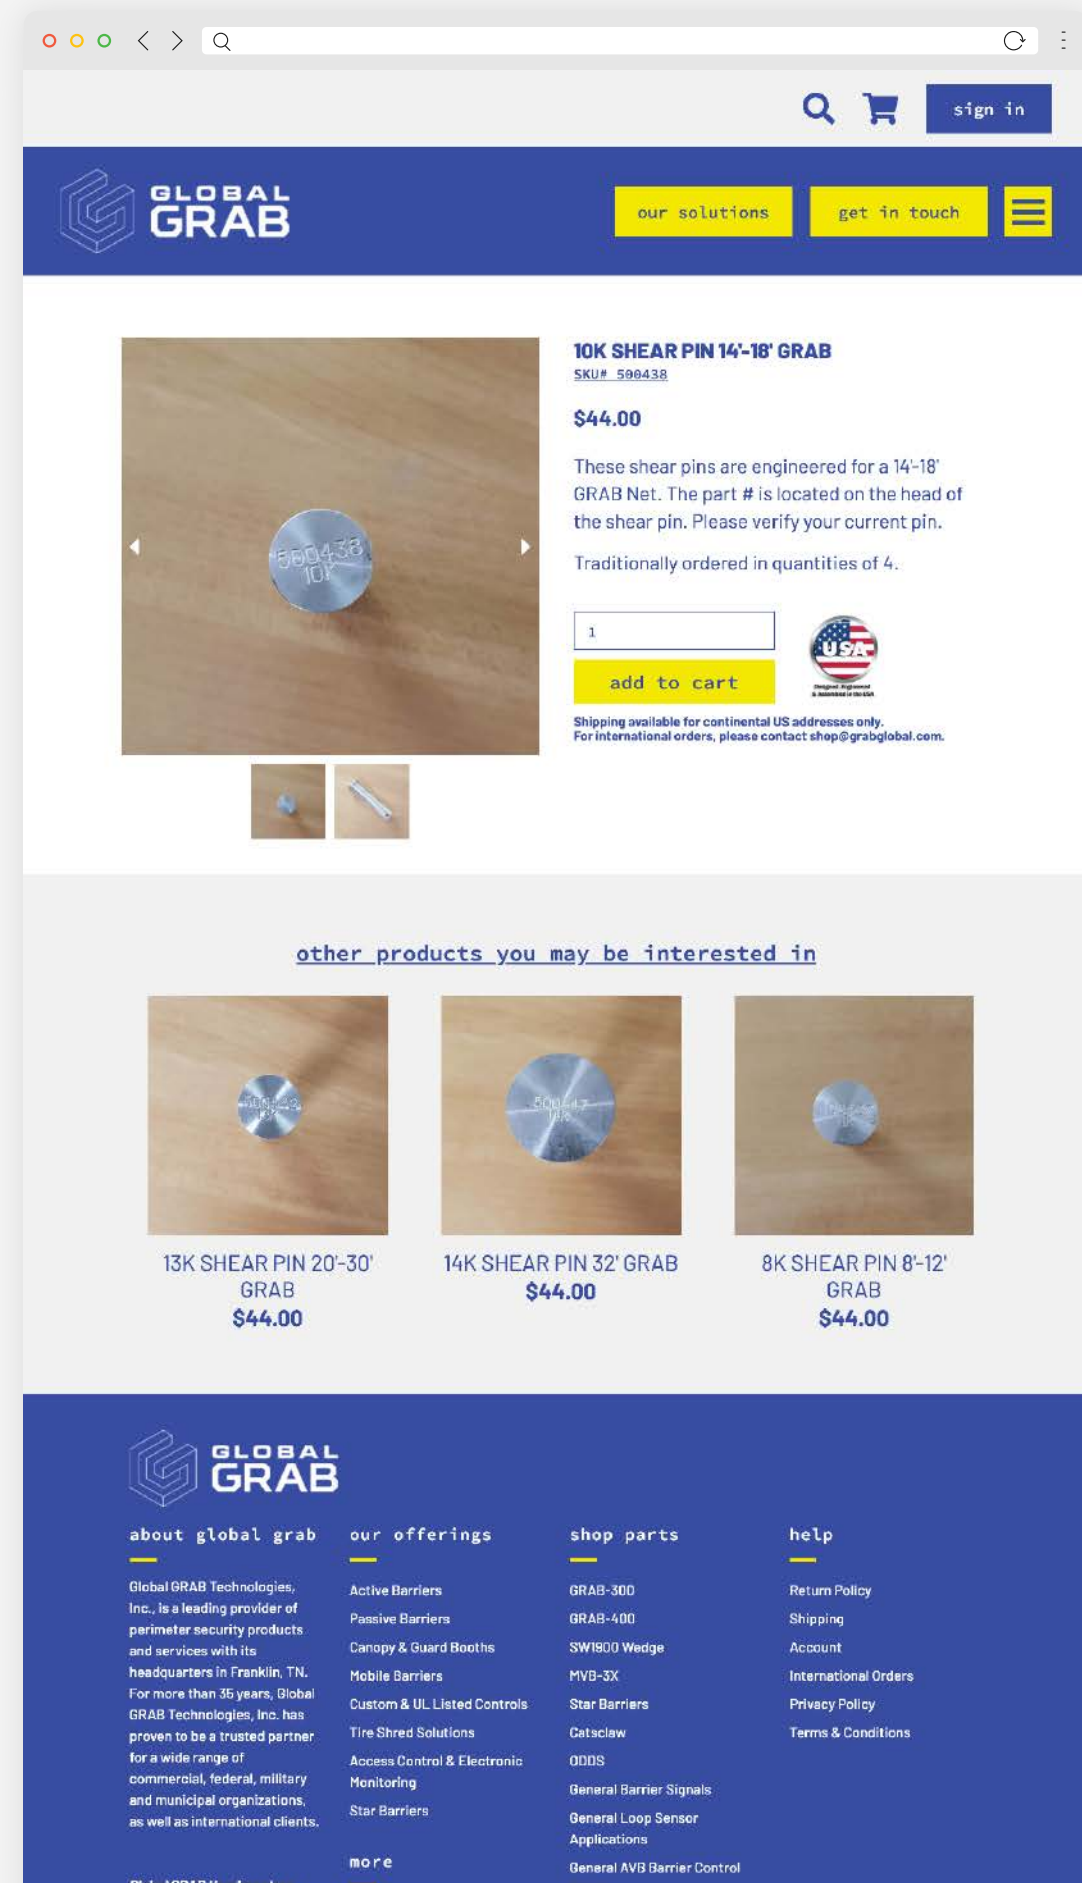

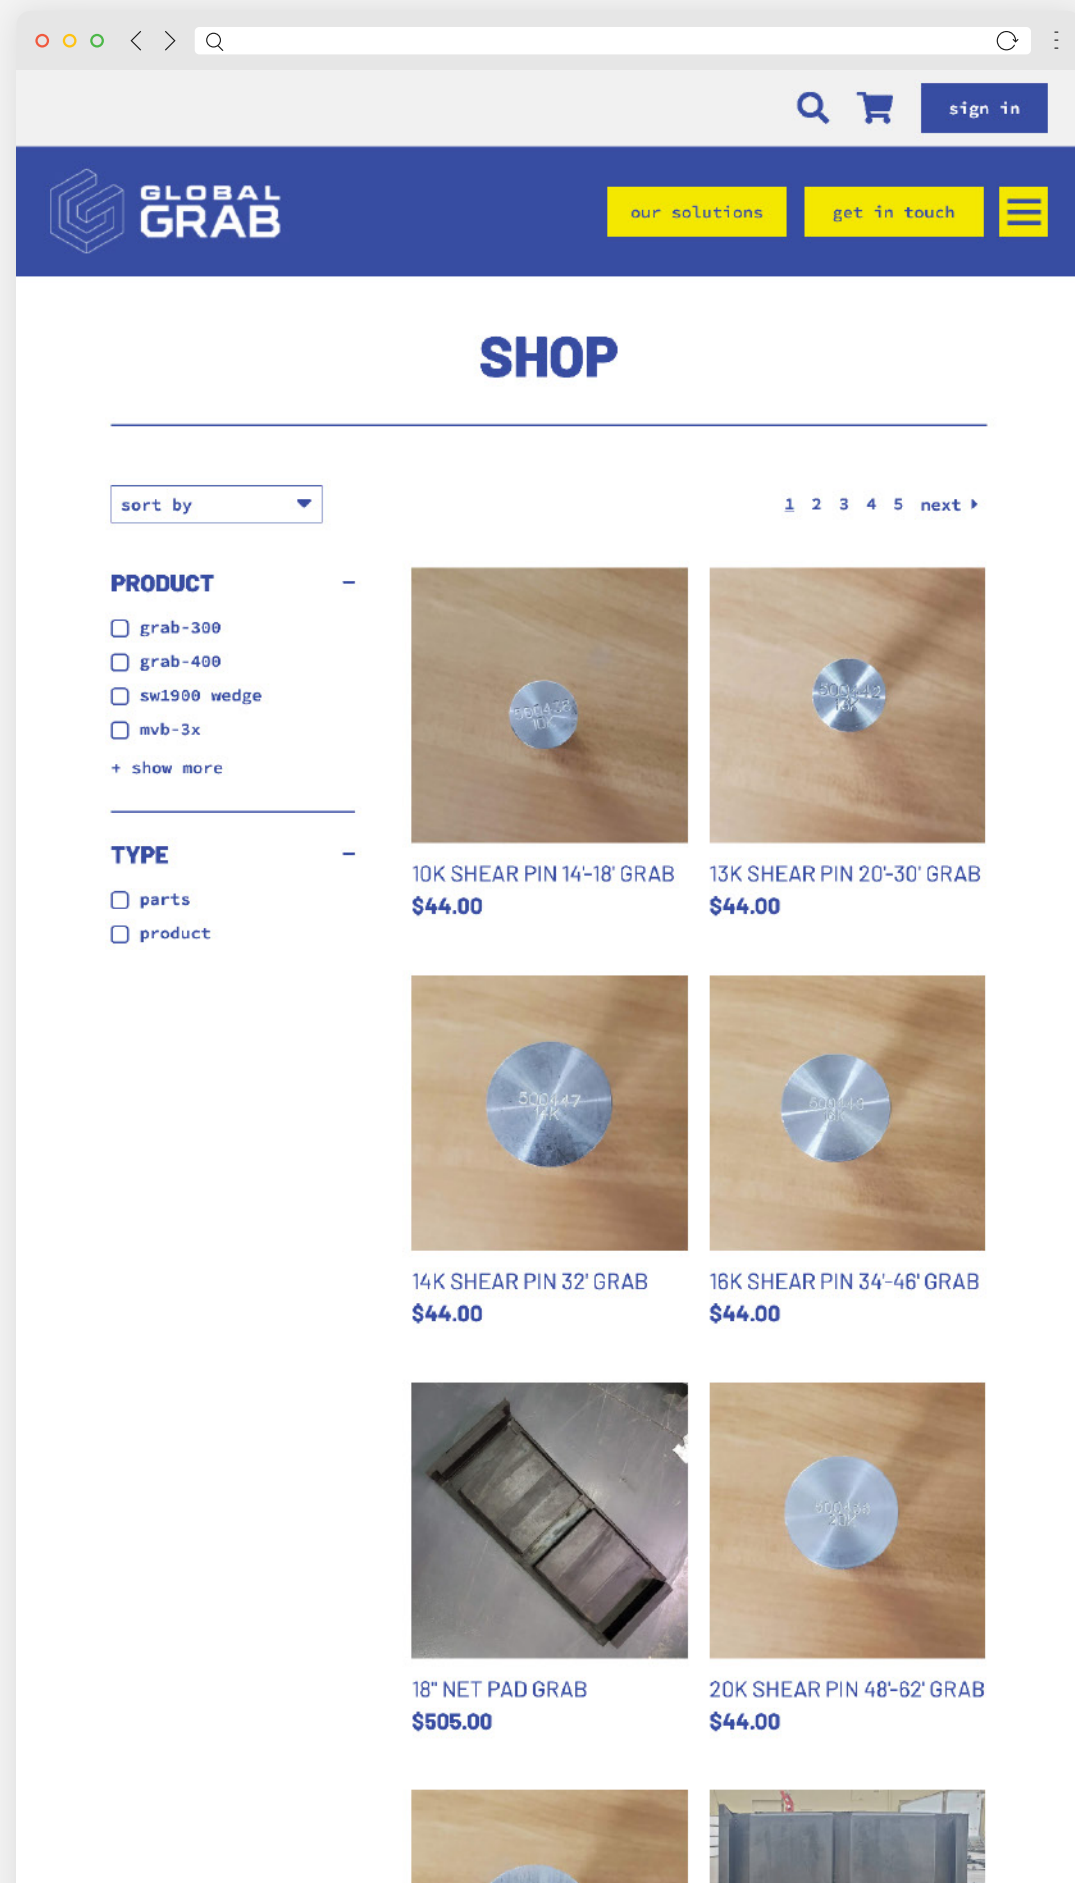

Joy Chastain
president

Our Services

Planning and Training

We aim to provide immediate assistance to support the affected population of an area hit by disaster, including warning/evacuation, search and rescue, assessing damage, and the immediate restoration of infrastructure.

Response

We work with federal, state, regional, county, municipal, and private nonprofit agencies to develop preparedness plans in an effort to deal with and avoid natural and man-made disasters.

Recovery

Once the threat to lives has subsided following a catastrophe, disaster recovery begins. The immediate goal of the recovery phase is to bring the affected area back to normalcy as quickly as possible. We aim to reduce overall costs throughout the short- and long-term recovery process.

Mitigation

At their worst, recurring hazard events can result in death and destruction of property and infrastructure. Since repeat events in the same locations cause repeated damage, we focus on hazard-mitigation planning and funding to reduce repetitive loss, thereby breaking the disaster cycle.
